

Bridge Bank

Mike Bondy | Senior Credit Officer & Senior VP

In this presentation, Mike Bondy, Senior Credit Officer & Senior VP from Bridge Bank discusses their business plan, the structure of Bridge Bank. Mike discusses why in this time of high competition and low return in the banking industry, Bridge Bank is the made the grade with the highest financial position of all the banks, competing and beating even the large commercial banks such as Bank of America and Wells Fargo.

Bridge Bank started about five and a half years ago with one of the highest initial capitalizations of $34 million. Bridge Bank has grown by using innovative strategies such as supporting the Silicon Valley technology and writing government guaranteed loans to small businesses that support local economies. They keep their competitive edge through customer focus by being able to write specialized loans that the larger banks cannot do.

Bridge Bank wants to grow indefinitely and they need more qualified people to work for them and they are looking to FMA to help fill that gap. In the past 5 years, they have promoted 30% of their positions from within the company. They are committed to supporting their employees in gaining higher education with training programs within Bridge Bank and through outside facilities.
